UNIT 1: THE CARIBBEAN IN THE ATLANTIC WORLD

INSTRUCTIONS TO CANDIDATES

1. You should spend 10 minutes reading through the paper before starting to write your responses.
2. Answer THREE questions, ONE on EACH module.
3. You must answer ONE document-based question and TWO essay questions.

SECTION A: MODULE 1

Answer ONE question only from this section.

Question 1

The extracts below relate to the conquests of the Amerindians in the sixteenth century. Study them, then answer Questions (a) to (d) that follow.

Document I

[Before the conquest, the Indians] never used to give large loads of mantas [pieces of cotton cloth], nor had they ever heard of beds, fine cotton fabrics, wax, or a thousand other fripperies like bed sheets, tablecloths, shirts and skirts. All they used to do was cultivate the fields of their lords, build their houses, repair the temples, and give of the produce of their fields when their lords asked for it.

Alonso de Zorita, Life and Labour in Ancient Mexico: The Brief and Summary Relation of the Lords of New Spain, (translated and edited by Benjamin Keen), New Brunswick, New Jersey: Rutgers University Press, 1963, p. 279.

Document II

They came in battle array, as conquerors, and the dust rose in whirlwinds on the roads. Their spears glinted in the sun, and their pennons [flags] fluttered like bats. They made a loud clamor as they marched, for their coats of mail [armour made of metal rings or small plates] and their weapons clashed and rattled. Some of them were dressed in glistening iron from head to foot; they terrified everyone who saw them.

Miguel Leon-Portilla, (ed.), The Broken Spears: The Aztec Account of the Conquest of Mexico, Boston: Beacon Press, 1962, p.41.

Document III

It was [the month of] Tepeilhuitl when it [smallpox] began, and it spread over the people as a great destruction. Some it quite covered [with pustules] on all parts – their faces, their heads, their breasts ... There was a great havoc. Very many died of it... Great was its destruction. Covered, mantled with pustules, very many people died of them.

SECTION B: MODULE 2

Answer ONE question only from this section.

Question 4

The extracts below relate to the experiences and strategies of survival of enslaved peoples. Study them, then answer Questions (a) to (d) that follow.

Document I

Adjoining to the house is usually a small plot of ground, laid out into a sort of garden... Each slave has, besides this spot, a piece of ground (about half an acre) allotted to him as provision ground. This is the principal means of his support; and so productive is the soil, where it is good and the season regular, that this spot will not only furnish him with sufficient food for his own consumption but an over surplus to carry to market...

Edinburgh: Oliver & Boyd, 1823, p.267.*

Document II

The woman is at work with her pickaninny on her back. If the overseer be discreet, she is suffered to rest herself a little more than ordinary, but if not, she is compelled to do as others do. Times they have of suckling their children in the fields, and refreshing themselves, and good reason, for they carry burdens on their back, and yet work too.

Richard Ligon, A True and Exact History of the Island of Barbados, London: Taylor & Francis Ltd., 1657, p.48.

Document III

It seems this morning, the women, one and all, refused to carry away the trash (which is one of the easiest tasks that can be set), and without the slightest pretence: in consequence, the mill was obliged to be stopped and when the driver on that station insisted on their doing their duty, a little fierce devil... flew at his throat and endeavoured to strangle him: the agent was obliged to be called in, and at length, this petticoat rebellion was subdued...

SECTION C: MODULE 3

Answer ONE question only from this section.

Question 7

The extracts below relate to the attempts by Haitian revolutionary leaders to create a free society in Haiti between 1804 and 1825. Study them, then answer Questions (a) to (d) that follow.

Document I

Take courage, I tell you, take courage. The French will not be able to remain long in St. Domingue... They will not be able to guard the country and they will have to leave. Then I shall make you independent. There will be no more whites among us...

Speech by Jean-Jacques Dessalines, circa 1802 quoted in Pauléus Sannon, Histoire de Toussaint-L'Ouverture, Vol. III, 1920, p.121, in C.L.R. James, The Black Jacobins: Toussaint L'Ouverture and the San Domingo Revolution, 2nd ed. revised. New York: Random House, 1963, pp.314-315.

Document II

The largest and most complete of his [Christophe's] garrisons was that called La Ferrière. It stood on one of the highest mountains in the Island, distant about ten miles from Cap Français; and commanded a view of that town, of the coast for several miles in length, and of the interior also to a very great extent...

Document III

2. Slavery is forever abolished.
3. The citizens of Hayti are brothers at home; equality in the eyes of the law is incontestably acknowledged, and there cannot exist any titles, advantages, or privileges, other than those necessarily resulting from the consideration and reward of services rendered to liberty and independence...
12. No white man of whatever nation he may be, shall put his foot on this territory with the title of master or proprietor, neither shall he in future acquire any property therein...
