SECTION A: MODULE 1

Answer ONE question only from this section.

Question 1

The extracts below relate to the causes of the American War of Independence and the French Revolution. Study the extracts, then answer Parts (a) to (d) that follow.

Document I

It is to law alone that men owe justice and liberty; it is that salutary organ of the will of all which re-establishes in Right the natural equality between men; it is that celestial voice which dictates to each citizen the precepts of public reason and teaches him to act according to the maxims of his own judgement and not to be in contradiction to himself...

Jean-Jacques Rousseau, 1762, cited in F. G. Green, Jean-Jacques Rosseau: A Critical Study of His Life and Writings, London: Cambridge University Press, 1955, pp. 279-280.

Document II

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness ... it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government...

*Declaration of Independence adopted by Congress, July 4, 1776.
(The Pennsylvania Packet, July 8, 1776). Retrieved April 27, 2012 from <http://www.earlyamerica.com/earlyamerica/freedom/doi/text.html>.*

Document III

The goal of constitutional government is to preserve the Republic; the goal of revolutionary government, to establish it. The revolution is the war waged by freedom against its foes; the constitution is the rule of freedom when it has triumphed and is at peace.

Maximillien Robespierre: Speech to the Convention , December 25, 1793, in B. Hodge and W. L. Mellor, Higher School Certificate History, Sydney: Hicks & Son, 1967, p. 218.

Question 4

The extracts below relate to the United States intervention in the Caribbean and Latin America up to 1917. Study the extracts, then answer Parts (a) to (d) that follow.

Document I

Indications are not wanting of an approaching change in the thoughts and policy of Americans as to their relations with the world outside their own borders ... The interesting and significant feature of this changing attitude is the turning of the eyes outward, instead of inward only, to seek the welfare of the country.

Alfred T. Mahan, The Interest of America in Sea Power, (1897) in John M. Blum, et al. A National Experience, Part II: A History of the United States since 1865, 7th ed., New York: Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1989, p. 483

Document II

The West Indies drift towards us ... the Republic of Mexico hardly any longer has an independent life and the city of Mexico is an American town. With the completion of the Panama Canal all Central America will become part of our system.

Brooks Adams, The New Empire, 1902, in John M. Blum et al. A National Experience, Part II: A History of the United States since 1865, 7th ed., New York: Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1989, p. 491.

Document III

Chronic wrongdoing, or an impotence which results in a general loosening of the ties of civilized society, may in America, as elsewhere, ultimately require intervention by some civilized nation.

“The Roosevelt Corollary to the Monroe Doctrine” (1903) in Henry S Commager, (ed.), Documents of American History, New York: Appleton-Century-Crofts, 1963, p.33.

The extracts below relate to the liberation struggles in South Africa. Study the extracts, then answer Parts (a) to (d) that follow.

Document I

My point is this, that if mixed development is to be the policy of the future in South Africa, it will lead to the most terrible clash of interests imaginable. The endeavours and desires of the Bantu and the endeavours and objectives of the Europeans will be antagonistic

Henrik Verwoerd, Minister of State, in a meeting with African members of the Native Representative Council, December, 1950, in Nancy L. Clark and William H. Worger, South Africa: The Rise and Fall of Apartheid, Harlow: Longman, 2004, p. 124.

...[T]he old methods of bringing about mass actions through public mass meetings, press statements and leaflets ... have become difficult to use effectively ... (we) require the development of new forms of struggle ... on a higher level ... there is no easy walk to freedom anywhere.

The time comes in the life of any nation where there remain only two choices - submit or fight. That time has now come to South Africa. We shall not submit and we have no choice but to hit back by all means in our power in defence of our people, our future and our freedom.
